The 2019 Chevrolet Tahoe is a popular and versatile large SUV that combines the utility of a pickup truck with comfortable seating and towing capability. It offers two powerful V8 engine options, excellent infotainment integration, and a serene cabin. While its truck-based design limits third-row space and can be noticeable on uneven roads, the Tahoe remains a strong contender in the large SUV segment, providing power, towing capability, and family-friendly features.

The Tahoe offers a choice between two V-8 engines, including a potent 420-hp version paired with a 10-speed automatic transmission. While the standard 355-hp 5.3-liter engine and six-speed automatic provide ample power and smooth shifts, the higher-performance option delivers enhanced dynamics and quicker acceleration.

The Tahoe features a comfortable and quiet cabin with a range of available features. While the GMC Yukon falls short of its upscale aspirations, the Tahoe delivers satisfactory build quality and materials. The spacious interior offers seating for passengers in the first two rows, although the third row is best suited for shorter individuals. The Tahoe comes with a full-featured touchscreen infotainment system, including a Wi-Fi hotspot, Apple CarPlay, and Android Auto. It provides ample interior storage space and competitive cargo-carrying ability, with a particularly large center console. Overall, the Tahoe offers a pleasant and well-equipped interior for its price point.
