The 2019 Chrysler Pacifica is a modern minivan that excels in providing ample space and impressive features. With seating for up to seven passengers (expandable to eight with an optional second-row bench), it offers room for families and their belongings. The patented Stow 'n Go seats allow for convenient folding of the second and third rows, creating a versatile cargo area with additional under-seat storage. The Pacifica delivers enjoyable acceleration and handling, and with the optional towing package, it can tow up to 3,600 pounds. Despite competition from rivals like the Honda Odyssey and Kia Sedona, Pacifica's attractive design, versatility, and towing capacity make it a compelling choice in the minivan market.

The Pacifica may not be the fastest minivan, but it certainly isn't sluggish. With a 0-60 mph time of 7.3 seconds, it performs well in the mid-range. Pacifica's 3.6-liter engine generates 287 horsepower and is paired with a nine-speed automatic transmission, making it responsive and peppy in urban environments.

It also captivates minivan buyers with its spaciousness and array of features. Its high-quality materials and Uconnect infotainment system, known for its user-friendly interface and responsiveness, enhance the overall experience. Despite a few downmarket plastic elements, the Pacifica impresses with its practical storage solutions and upgraded connectivity options like Apple CarPlay and Android Auto integration.
