2022 Nissan Pathfinder Loss in Value Case Study

Tuesday, August 08, 2023

The 2022 Nissan Pathfinder emerges as a formidable contender in the realm of midsize three-row SUVs, positioned to challenge rivals like the Hyundai Palisade, Kia Telluride, and Toyota Highlander. This revamped version replaces the prior model's limitations with a bold redesign, aiming to cater to families seeking both comfort and versatility.

Equipped with a V-6 engine mated to a nine-speed automatic transmission, the Pathfinder offers standard front-wheel drive with optional all-wheel drive for those seeking off-road excursions. The revamp brings forth a robust and upright exterior, enhancing its muscular appearance. Nissan also tackled suspension tuning, addressing the previous model's choppiness and improving overall ride quality.

Inside the cabin, the 2022 Pathfinder shines with its upscale ambiance, accommodating up to eight passengers across three rows. The inclusion of refined finishes and intuitive technology features adds to its appeal, accompanied by ample interior storage and advanced driver-assistance capabilities. Furthermore, its enhanced towing capacity, along with composed handling, positions the Pathfinder as a reliable choice for diverse needs.

In the realm of midsize SUVs, the 2022 Nissan Pathfinder distinguishes itself with its striking redesign, superior powertrain, and well-appointed interior. While it competes in a crowded market alongside vehicles like the Honda Pilot and Kia Telluride, the Pathfinder's blend of comfort, technology, and towing prowess makes it a strong contender for families in search of a versatile and capable companion on the road.
